Limited to 20 high school students. Program Cost: $50
Program Goals

The program seeks to help students:

- Identify the local connections and relevancies of complex transnational issues.
- Develop leadership skills relating to communication, critical thinking, and project management.
- Understand and appreciate different perspectives and worldviews.
- Enhance self-knowledge relating to personal values, identity, and privilege.
- Learn about and engage in creative solutions on a local level to address global issues highlighted by the United Nations Sustainable Development Goals.
- Cultivate a greater capacity for empathy and deeper appreciation for diversity.

“I’ve become more aware of my words, thoughts, and actions, and of the world we live in. GLP has encouraged me to read the news more, be more aware of my role as a global citizen, and to care about what happens in the world and what I can do to help.”
